THE POOR

GIVING BOUNTIES TO THE RICH.
There are thousands of people in the United States living upon slender incomes, widows and orphans, ministers, lawyers, doctors, teachers, clerks and others. The artificial scale of prices, induced by excessive tariffs, works a peculiar hardship upon these people, for they must maintain a certain standard of living which compels them to use articles heavily taxed by the McKinley bill.

Surely, nothing should be taken from the small incomes of such people unless an equivalent is given in return. They are willing to pay their just share of taxes, and as a matter of fact they pay more, but they are hardly in a position to pay bounties to rich manufacturers.

The amount taken by the American manufacturers from such people when their necessities compel them to buy any article, may be small, but it has been taken, and nothing given to them in return. They are contributing to a bounty for the manufacturer, to enable him to make large profits out of his business. If a man with a salary of $1200 pays $50 a year in these bounties to the manufacturers, he has given up two weeks of his year to help out the Sugar Trust, Carnegie and others. IS THIS JUST?

FAMED SANTA MARIA.

COLUMBUS' FLAGSHIP COMPARED WITH MODERN SAILING VESSELS.

The Yonder in the Steamer of Today is How the Navigator Crossed the Ocean in the Little Caravel—A Fantastic for the World's Fair.

Spain is now in the midst of a series of fete in commemoration of the discovery of America which will last till late in October. On the 3d of August, the day of the sailing of Columbus from Palos, the jubilation began, and of all the sights the exact reproduction of the flagship of Columbus, the Santa Maria, excited most attention. Among the sailors in the vast gathering there was a loud cheer of astonishment and understand. Almost unanimously they declared that such a ship had not done this thing—it was impossible.

THE FLAG AT COLUMBIA CORNERS.

The school committee had engaged Helen Fulton to teach for the fall and winter terms at Columbia Corners with some indignation. "We were so used to having a teacher with more determination and energy," suggested Chairman Rose, of the committee. "Miss Fulton took an excellent vacation, but she's such a child! Little body! I'm afraid some of the boys will be too much for her."

HER OWN DOCTOR.

It was not, however, generally known that Miss Fulton was a doctor. And yet she was a doctor. Only a few were aware that a Winchester rifle was hidden in her small chest in the study. These friends knew the reliable spirit which Miss Fulton possessed, and not one doubted that, if occasion required, she would make use of it.

For over a week following the arrival of the new flag the routine of school work was unbroken. At the opening of the school each morning the flag was raised, the entire school joining in a salute. At the close of the day's work, it was hoisted from its lofty position and given into the keeping of its staff. Then, after the determined little teacher equal to the emergency.

It was Friday afternoon and the school work for the week was about over. One of the boys was listlessly erasing the written exercises from the blackboard, when, chancing to glance toward the window, he saw something which attracted his attention. Two men, whom he recognized as Pete Johnson and Jack White, were entering the school. They were both noted characters and had been arrested some months before charged with having stolen a horse. There was no sufficient evidence upon which to hold them and the sheriff had reluctantly released them.

They entered the schoolyard with a swagger, Johnson carrying in his hand an ax. The purpose of their visit was in a hurry. In a moment he was at Miss Fulton's desk. Breathlessly he told her what he had seen. The color left the doctor's face as she listened, for Johnson and White were well known as reckless and lawless men.
For a moment she felt unable to carry out her duty. She was torn between the flag which she had vowed to protect and the danger which she was in. But she was a doctor, and she knew how to use it.

Consider the fact that her pupils would be better off if they could all be brought together and become interested in a common cause. She was a doctor, and she knew how to use it. She was a doctor, and she knew how to use it. She was a doctor, and she knew how to use it.

The school committee had engaged
and energy," suggested Chairman Rose,
